The law under which the commissioner is appointed authorizes them to negotiate with the Sioux Indians occupying the great Sioux railway mail service. It is required that appli-cants for examination shall be citizens of the tion of Dakota for a cession to the United States of a portion of the reservation, the re-mainder to be divided into separate reservations. Whatever agreement is made with the Indians plicants for examination are to be examined as must be ratified by Congress. This is the largest Indian reservation in the country, and contains 21,593,128 acres. There are some 24,000 Indians located there. Under an act of Congress of April 30, 1888, the Secretary of the Interior was instructed to negotiate with these Indians for the cession of their lands. THE LAW AS TO THE TRACKS. Messrs. Parker and Dwyer Quote the Commissioners Against Capt. Symons.

Messrs. Parker and Dwyer were on hand at the District buildings this morning bright and early. They had an answer to Capt. Symons' report (printed in Saturday's STAR), which they submitted to the Commissioners. They tracks in South Washington, we wish to call your serious attention, as well as that of the public, to the fact that we have asked nothing but what is just and legal, and bear out our statements by the following quotations from your report to Congress, dated November 15, 1887. Said report is signed by Messrs. Webb. Wheatley, and Ludlow. On page 57 you say: "In the case of the steam railways, the occupancy of numerous streets and a multiplication of grade crossings, alike dangerous to life and limb, destructive of public property interests of great value, inimical to private rights, and opposed to public policy as in conflict with the rights and necessities of a modern community,' they 'have in some respects put them-seives in direct antagonism thereto by an un-lawful expansion of their holdings and the occupancy of public space far beyond their charter rights and privileges.' In speaking of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad you say, and your remarks are applicable to the Baltimore and Potomac railroad company, that 'people will but themselves to much trouble, inconvenience and expense to avoid peril to themselves and their families of crossing a steam railway track in leaving or reaching their homes. Again you say, this brief statement of the facts in the case make an exhibit of local conditions which would not be tolerated in any portion of a modern community.' "In speaking of the Baltimore and Potomac railroad company—page 59—you say: 'It does not follow, however, that, because the services of a great private corporation are necessary due regulation of that service and the restric tions of privileges to such as are needful thereto and in conformity with the public requirements apprehension at the Navy department. She is also hibited that tendency toward the protection of its own interests, &c. May we be allowed to ask why are the Commissioners, you, appointed and paid a salary if not to exert your authority and retrain these violations of law, which you state in writing is a fact.

"We also quote from the decision of the United States Supreme Court, delivered by Mr. R. Lapham, of New York, clerk at $1,400, to Justice Miller April 20, 1885, an opinion which chief of stationery and printing division, at | we and all thinking men will hold, is of more weight and consequence than the opinion of Capt. Symons, who may be well versed in engineering, but cannot be expected to be as learned in law as such a body of men as compose the United States Supreme Court. This opinion is included in the report of the Commissioners above referred to. On page 109, the court says: It is a somewhat novel idea to say that the railroad company can use the streets as the company likes or their business demands. It also calls attention to the fact that Congress has been very careful in directly, specificially and minutely saying how the tracks shall be NAVAL ORDERS.—Lieut. H. M. Witzel ordered sec. 673: 'No railroad shall be built under the provisions of this charter until the route and ermini of such road have been approved by Congress.'

"Capt. Symons makes the remarkable statement that By virtue of certain acts the control of streets was vested in the board of public works and that the same power passed to the District of Columbia, says, in speaking of steam railroads: 'Congress created a board of public works, to which it gave entire control of the streets, for the purpose of keeping them in repair and for no other purpose; that the struction in torpedo service May 1.

"It is now simply a question—will you respect the decision of the Supreme Court, your district attorney's opinion, your own report, or will you take in preference the opinion of one who is not appointed to decide and interpret law for the District of Columbia. His argument is to us very poor, unsupported by law, and one which might be suitable for a railroad lawyer who, failing to make a case, is crying for mercy to save expense to his client, not by lawful means, but by the power of might."

WAITING FOR THE WORD. Feverish Excitement Along Oklahoma

Border-Desperate Schemes.

Sr. Louis, April 22.—Special dispatches from the Oklahoma country say that everybody is on the qui vice to make a grand rush across the line into the land of Caanan at noon to-day. Five hundred dollars was yesterday offered and accepted for a fleet horse at Purcell. The horse was purchased by Tom Horton, a man who expects to reach a claim now proposed to be taken up by a town site company which expects to build across the river, a city which will in the future rival Purcell. As many fleet horses are being brought in from Texas and Kansas, the race will be most exciting, as they fly across the country, the goal, a stake, the prize, a claim. THE STRUGGLE FOR TOWN SITES. There is as much, if not more, struggling for town sites as for sections. It is said thirty-two town companies are going for Guthrie, about that number for Oklahoma City, and about twenty for Kingfisher, while there are applicants for sites on almost every section. This makes the average settler swear. The trouble between town-site companies promises to be as danger-ous as among the claim-hunters. There has also been brewing for the last day or two an animosity between the northern fellows and Texans especially, including some colonies from other states. Once within the strip men, either on foot or in wagons, were to be seen almost continually going southward. There were no soldiers or officers of any kind to prevent their entering the country. Some were encamped on the banks of streams. The women were cooking the meals and the men were shooting at either marks or game. AN OLD BOOMER'S STORY. "Few persons know," said an old boomer, who was encamped on the Oklahoma line, "what dangers I have gone through to reach here. My party had a cowboy guide, and when we came to the Chickasaw we were compelled to pay a man $450 to swim the stream and bring us meeting of Mrs. Pauline King, the colored a little boat in which we could cross, and we then pulled our rig across and swam our teams, The same thing had to be done at South fork, > Scheme to Seize the Cherokee Slip. A scheme has just developed, the magnitude of which and the daring character of the men engaged in it, makes it one of great importance. It is every day becoming more apparent upon his conversion and the wondrous power | that the lands of Oklahoma will be insufficient a consequence, there have been organized bands or companies, the members of which are not come out to the park on her own volition, but that it was sworn to protect their redows. The considerable portion of them fail to get into Oklahoma they will league together and take possession with water from a neighboring well, and placed of the Cherokee strip. Two-thirds even of these organized men will be left, and in a week from to-day they will have ten thousand determined men, desperate from failure of cherished plans, driving the stock out of the strip and holding down claims. The hope of the men who conceived this desperate enterprise is to have so many people in the strip in a short time that it will be thought better to leave them than attempt to drive them

Arkansas City is the headquarters of the engineers of the scheme, but auxiliaries are located along the line and the rush will be simultaneous at all points. The officers fear this and will endeavor to hurry a patrol for the strip from Oklahoma to anticipate and thus prevent the expected rush.

It is well known that such a scheme has been talked of by Col. Cole and other Oklahoma agitators, and at the present time they find most opportune to make their advance.

They rode down on a Pacific car, and alighting from the train showed their commissions as deputy marshals, properly signed and attested, and so the soldiers, much against their will, were compelled to permit them to remain. Their evident intention is to form some town site. It is thought that there are over thirty deputies now in and about Ok-lahoma who, at noon, will turn in their resignations and accept it all by themselves, each individually, and turn private citizens. They will then take claims.

MASSACHUSETTS WILL VOTE NO. The Proposed Prohibition Amendment Will Not Pass.

Boston, April 22.—To-day is voting day upon the proposed amendment to the constitution of Massachusetts prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors. The day is bright and cool, with the prospects favorable for a large vote. Both parties have been active in the campaign and a full vote is expected. The day is a legal holiday, with the exception that certain business transactions re-lating to contracts, &c., will be valid, and the banks, exchanges and wholesale business houses are closed. The polls open at 7 a.m. and close at 4:30, and it is expected, owing to the simplicity of the ballot, that the returns from the entire state will be completed by midnight. The following is a copy of the proposed amendment:
"The manufacture and sale of intoxicating

"The manufacture and sale of intokicating liquors to be used as a beverage are prohibited. The general court shall enact suitable legislation to enforce the provisions of this article."

All recent impartial canvasses and general opinion point to the rejection of the amendment, the principal interest being in the size of the majority against it.
